STEWARDSHIP

Today's reading from St. Paul explains the "divine economy" of stewardship. "The relief of others ought not to impoverish you; there should be a certain equality. Your plenty at the present time should supply their need so that their surplus may in turn one day supply your need."

WELCOME, DEACON!

Deacon Charles Bemis is assigned to Sacred Heart for the summer. Deacon Charles is a transitional deacon which means that he is in his final year of formation and will be ordained as a priest. May God bless Deacon Charles along his journey to the priesthood.

A NOTE FROM DEACON CHARLES:

Greetings, everyone! It is a blessing to be here at Sacred Heart through August. I was born in Tallahassee, Florida, but moved to Middleburg when I was six and have called this diocese my home ever since. Growing up at St. Luke Catholic Church and Annunciation Catholic School, I developed a curiosity for the Mass as well as the vocation of priesthood. I remember thinking, as an eight-year-old, how awesome it would be to become a priest. After all, I had many great examples of great priests during my life. My passion for faith deepened when my grandmother took me to Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament regularly on Monday nights. In Middle School, was known as that 'Priest Kid' by friends and students. As time went on, I was still involved in the Church, but my mind and heart slowly moved away from the thought of entering seminary. It wasn't until my senior year of high school that priestly discernment entered my mind and heart once again. Back then, I had an encounter with a Priest who questioned me about my vocation, something that made me stand still and ponder what my calling truly was. All of a sudden, these urges and tugs on my heart made me begin to think about seminary and priesthood. At first, I tried to suppress and ignore it, like it wasn't there. However, if there is one thing I have learned is that you can't run away from the will of God. I had all these plans for college and beyond, but "when people plan, God laughs." I ended up consulting my pastor for advice and finally became open to the ideas of listening to the call. It got to a point where I could no longer suppress my thoughts and feelings about priestly discernment, so during Holy Week 2016 I decided to enter seminary formation. "Lord, if this is your will, let it be done." I felt like a huge weight was lifted off my shoulders, as I finally opened the door for the will of God to enter into my life. During these last eight years, I have been more than blessed with fruitful encounters at seminary and with the faithful in this Diocese and I am more than eager to begin serving the people in a full-time capacity after ordination next year.

REFLECTION

The Head and the Heart

Have you ever known something intellectually, with your mind, yet not really believe it with your whole heart and soul? I love to try and see if I can figure out the connections between the Sunday Mass readings, particularly the First Reading and the Gospel. While reflecting on today's Mass readings to write this reflection, I realized I knew something in my head but didn't know it in my heart.

The First Reading hit me right between the eyes. God didn't create disorder in the world, and he hates that the human race must deal with the fallout of sin. Sin brings all kinds of disorder in our world, but perhaps one of the most well-known and experienced forms of disorder comes through health - or lack thereof.

In today's Gospel reading, two women are experiencing devastating health events, one was even near death. At that point, the lightbulb finally went off in my head. "God doesn't want this for anybody. He doesn't want those women - or anyone - to suffer with bad health or in a myriad of other ways." He didn't make death or revel in it, but God had a plan to clean it all up. And to increase faith among his followers, he heals both women that day, prefiguring our life in Heaven with God.

Have I always known that God didn't make death or revel in it? In my head, yes. In my heart, no. I suspect that there is some sort of truth about God that you know and believe in your intellect, but don't truly embrace with your whole heart and soul. That's okay, my friend. Ask God for the grace and ability to believe it and to welcome it firmly into your inner being. And, like the women healed that day, maybe, just maybe, you'll witness a little miracle in your life.

TREASURES FROM OUR TRADITION

As Independence Day draws near, we think of the men and women of the military who serve with courage and competence, some far from home. How does the Church accompany them? In 1939, Pope Pius XII created an independent jurisdiction of the Catholic Church called the "Military Vicariate." In 1985 Pope John Paul II created the "Archdiocese for Military Services, USA." Spanning the globe and serving nearly one and a half million Roman Catholics, more than one thousand priests minister in hospitals, on military bases of all the armed forces, on ships at sea, and on the battlefield. The AMS does not ordain priests, but accepts priests on loan from religious orders and dioceses.

In 1824 a Jesuit priest named Adam Marshall enlisted in the Navy and died at sea in 1825. He was assigned as a "schoolmaster," but he sought out and ministered to Catholic sailors. Twenty years later, President Polk was worried that the war with Mexico was seen as anti-Catholic, so he recruited two Jesuit priests to serve in the army as chaplains. At the time of the Civil War, only about ten percent of Americans were Catholic. Military policies forced Catholic soldiers to attend Protestant services. The Church protested this rule, and many priests volunteered to become chaplains. Their witness and the courage of the "Nuns of the Battlefield" (several orders of sisters who assisted Civil War victims) helped temper prejudice against Catholics and pave the way for the life and ministry of this vigorous and unique archdiocese.
